eastern problems came to an end to day with statement delivered in the far eastern committee setting forth the position of the American and Chinese governments toward the "Leventy-one demands." Speaking for China, Dr. Wang said his government viewed with satisfaction Japan's announcement yesterday that a group of five and some other clauses of the "demands" would be withdrawn, but reserved her right to protest the parts remaining. Secretary Hughes asserted that the American government still stood on its rights in the mater as it had asserted them when the "demands" were laid down by Japan in 1915, and there the discussion ended without action.

Final Ratification Today
The only treaties to be formally given conference approval at tomorrow's session are the two relating to China, but at the same time there will be a final ratification of the supplementary resolutions that have been adopted in the far eastern com-mittee and probably an exchange of notes to definitely exclude the Jap-anese homeland from the scope of the four-power Pacific treaty signed December 13. The session will begin at 10:30 a. m., a half-hour earlier than the customary meeting time of the conference and its committees in anticipation of the several hours of farewell oratory. On Monday, the delegates will sign the naval treaty, the submarine and poison gas treaty, the two treaties relating to China and the supplementary notes to be attached to the four-power Pacific treaty. The agreement regarding Yap, to which the United States and Japan alone are parties. and the six-power settlement, allo-cating the former German cables in the Pacific, are not yet in treaty form, but they are considered as hav-ing only incidental connection with the conference and will not delay the departure of the delegates for home. It is expected they will be pressed to conclusion in the near fu-bome. It is expected they pressed to conclusion in the near future through diplomatic channels.

Poor Aim But Good Intent

Friends of Colonel Roosevelt used to delight to tell this story on him. They said that after his retirement from the presidency he was making one of his periodical trips through the southwest, when word came to him in a town in New Mexico that one of his old Rough Riders, a cow hand, was in jail on a serious charge over in Arizona and craved that his beloved former commander would come to see him and if no that his beloved former commander would come to see him and, if pos-sible, aid him in his present troubles.

Promptly the colonel crossed the line. In a small brick coop of a county prison he found the veteran. The latter was locked in a cell, and for an additional precaution the authorities had seen fit to decorate his ankles with quite a lot of ironmongery. It was plain that they desired to take no chances on losing him.

When greetings had been exchanged through the bars, Colonel Roosevelt said:

ain't got no right to keep me locked up. My bein' here is all due to a mistake, anyway."

"A mistake?" echoed the colonel. "Why, I understood you were charged with some serious offense—shooting somebody, wasn't it?"

"Well," said the prisoner, with a petulant clanking of the pendant links of his hardware, "It's true that I did shoot a lady in the eye. But it was an accident, colonel."

"An accident?"

"Yes, suh, a pure accident. I wasn't shootin' at that lady at all. I shootin' at my wife."

The deliberations in the afternoon apparently were somewhat shorter, as the great clock of St. Peters' registered 5:25 when the chimney emitted a feeble cloud of black smoke telling mutely to the vast assemblage in St. Peters square that the momentous question was still undecided.
